"It is vital that new mothers should be given the best possible advice. This should definitely include the promotion of breastfeeding as the best possible start for their babies. It is iniquitous that multinationals, of which Nestlé is a prime example, should ride roughshod over the International Code in order to increase their profits. Please join the worldwide boycott against Nestlé."

"I think it is incomprehensible and despicable that a major multinational company like this should be ignoring world opinion. They must be made to realise that the pursuit of profits, with so little regard for the health and welfare of infants is intolerable."

Derek Cooper, Broadcaster and President of the Guild of Food Writers

"Nothing could be more important for future generations than the way young babies are fed. I am encouraging all our supporters in the Labour movement not to buy Nescafé until Nestlé stops undermining breastfeeding."

Glenys Kinneck MEP, Chair of One World

"Europe's largest food company has forgotten why humans need food. Instead of providing food for nourishment and health, they are promoting unnecessary products for profit."

Tim Jobstein, The Food Commission
